FORTY-THREE STARS.

How Russian Prisoner Was Tortured.

Petrograd.—A Russian soldier named Peter Krivtsov arrived here suffering from forty-three wounds. He and five comrades, became separated from a detachment after nightfall, and were misdirected by the local inhabitants, with the result that they fell into the hands of a German outpost.

Krivtsov was seized and disarmed by three German cavalrymen, while his companions were fired upon. Their fate is unknown. Krivtsov was held by two of the Germans, while the third stabbed him forty-three times with his bayonet in the chest, arms, legs, and even the head. Finally, they left him apparently dead. He managed to crawl away to a hut belonging to a Polish peasant, who tended him kindly, and afterwards helped him to reach the lines of the Russians, who were then making an attack.

Amongst the Germans who were captured immediately afterwards was a German doctor, who was made to examine Krivtsov and sign a declaration certifying the number and the savage nature of the injuries inflicted upon him.

A troupe including Seymour Hicks, Ellaline Terriss, Gladys Cooper, Ben Davies, Eli Hudson and others were proceeding to the front to give one week's entertainment to the troops. The first concert was arranged for New Year's eve and was to be given in the French base hospital, having the largest number of Scottish wounded.

A Natural Remedy

Time was when disease was thought to be due to the direct influence of evil spirits, and exorcism
and magic were invoked to cast it out.

Science has taught us wisdom. The evil spirits exist still. We call them "Disease Germs," and they also must be cast out. Once lodged in the stomach or intestines, fever with its hallucinations, or biliousness with its aches and pains, is the result.

ENO'S
FRUIT SALT

is the approved remedy for driving out disease germs. Its action is quick and thorough. It clears the intestines, rouses the torpid liver to new life, stimulates the mucous membrane to a healthy action, and cleanses and invigorates the whole digestive tract.

It may be safely taken at any time by young or old.

It is very effective in the early stage of Diarrhea
by removing the irritating cause.

Be prepared for emergencies by always keeping a bottle in the house.

SANITARY BOARD ELECTION.

TO THE ELECTORS:—

GENTLEMEN,

I had the honour of being elected by you to serve on the Sanitary Board last year and during the few months for which I served, I did my utmost to further the interests of the Colony. I have been a led to offer myself for election on this occasion and now do so.

Primarily, I may say, I am asked to stand as representing the interests of Kowloon and the Mainland but I trust that I have shown, during my former short tenure that my energies will be devoted to all parts of the Colony.

Should you honour me by electing me
on this occasion, you may rest assured that I shall work in your interests without fear and without favour.

I am, Gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
PHILIP W. GOLDRING.

Hongkong, Jan. 20, 1915.

To The
ELECTORS FOR THE SANITARY BOARD.

GENTLEMEN,

The period of three years for which I was elected to represent you on the Sanitary Board has expired, and as I have been requested to stand as a candidate for the post,
I venture to solicit your vote at the forthcoming election which will be held at the SUPREME COURT on FRIDAY, 22nd instant, from 4 to 6 p.m.

As I have resided and practised in the Colony for 22 years and for more than half that time held the Office of Crown Solicitor,
my professional duties have brought me into contact with every section of the community in all parts of the Colony, and I have had considerable experience in drafting and enforcing the laws and regulations dealing with matters connected with the Public Health, and opportunities of observing the effect of such regulations on the welfare of the community.

All my interests are bound up in the prosperity of the Colony as a whole, and I have always endeavoured to support to the best of my ability all such measures as appeared to be conducive to the Public Health without inflicting unnecessary expense or hardship on any section of the community.

The present is not the time for advocating expensive structural improvements or radical alterations of any kind, but, if elected, I shall do my utmost to promote the Public Health by the efficient administration of the existing laws.

Your obedient Servant,
F. B. L. BOWLEY.

BATTLE STORIES.

THE KING AT THE FRONT.

Delight of the Troops.

(From the "Daily Telegraph.")

Among the troops, reviewed by the King during his recent visit to the front

was the 5th Scottish Rifles. An account of the historic occasion is given in a letter written by a young lieutenant of that regiment to his relatives in Glasgow.

Having been withdrawn from the trenches, they were, he states, suddenly ordered for a very important purpose.

The men were formed up on the roadside,

and after a long wait they saw a "fleet"

of motor-cars, headed by a motor-cyclist

riding a Union Jack.

There were crowds of other regiments

there, he writes, "and a halt was made on the procession reached us." When it halted at the 5th Scottish Rifles' lines,

our stopped the King himself, accompanied by the Prince of Wales and a large staff. The officers were introduced personally, and the King shook hands

with them and spoke pleasantly to them.

The troops are in great spirits at the honour paid them, and they all think that the King is a real sport to come over so near the German lines.

GRENADIER GUARDS.

Fierce Fight in a Garden.

Private Archie Way, of Penryn, has told his home wounded in the Battle of Ypres. Private Way, who was a

Reservist, was called up in August

Bank Holiday week, was attached to the 2nd Company of the 1st Battalion of the Grenadier Guards. Way said that the Princes of Wales was attached to his battalion, and he could not speak too highly of his Royal Highness, who, he said,

"was a good 'un." The day we left

he presented every one of us with a pair of gloves and a pair of socks. As he stood on the square when we were marching off he seemed a real figure at being unable to come with us. I can honestly say that every man in the company felt sorry for him. We all knew it was not his fault that he was not with us. He has now had his wish, however, and I feel sure that he will acquit himself

well. He was like one of ourselves,

while he would give some of the big ones as much as they cared for on a march. Proceeding, Private Way says:

We were in the thick of it at Ypres.

We spent some time making trenches,

and Lord Richard Wellesley came to my side and closely examined the shelter

my pal and I had put up. This was done to prevent us being struck by shrapnel,

and Lord Richard Wellesley asked if we thought it was safe. Upon being told that we were practical soldiers he responded, "Oh, if you are soldiers, there are perfectly safe, for you know your business much better than I do."

THINGS GETTING A BIT HOT.

The sergeant, who was next to me, gave the order to lie low, as the shells were simply raining down. My mate with that went down full length upon his back,

and the sergeant thinking he had acted

very hastily, sarcastically remarked,

"Oh, you need not be in such a blooming hurry." Turning round, we found that the chap had been seriously wounded, having been shot in the forehead.

All through the night, being in a state of delirium, he sang, and it was far from being a pleasant sensation. We could not remove him, as the firing was too heavy. The next day we had the order to retire. We got back to the village of Zandvoort where we were to support the Gardens.

After preparing trenches was snatched

a bit of sleep, but was awakened by the Gardens, who came running back, shouting "Be careful!" We naturally retired with them, until we got to a farmhouse.

Here Major Stuckley told us to back up and let them have what they were asking for. We held a ridge in the garden of the farmhouse, I being the left-hand man.

NOW LORD RICHARD WELLESLEY FELL.

The morning was just breaking, and it was difficult to see anything owing to the heavy mist. I fancied I could hear a sound of approaching footsteps, and I said to my chain, "Look out, they are coming up the garden path." He said,

"Be careful, they might be some of our sheep." I waited a second, and with the sun just breaking through the clouds

I saw the Germans.

Without begging their pardon, I let go and brought down the first man.

Then it was hell. They outnumbered us by ten to one. They succeeded in getting a machine-gun up to the farmhouse and turned it upon us. They simply swept the trench, and we went down

the path. We were lost last night Richard

Wellesley, who was my company officer,

and also Major Stuckley.

THE SPORTING SPIRIT.

How Our Troops Approach War.

Dr. P. W. James, of Croydon, who is serving as a Lieutenant with the South-Highlanders, has written an interesting letter to a friend at Croydon. He says:

The only way to finish the war is to pour in crowds of men. Numbers must tell; that's the way to reach Berlin.
Let no man run away with the idea that the German army is rotten. Their artillery as wonderful in its aim. The explosive that they use is not so good as our own, but honour where honour is due, and to see their batteries seeking and often finding our own is pure science.
Of their infantry, they are brave men,
but what I have said from the beginning
is that their discipline is that of fear-ours of respect, and the latter must always tell. Don't run away with the idea that because of this one Englishman is equal to two Germans—he isn't where war is concerned.
We approach war sportingly; they approach it professionally. Just let me give you a few examples. Every German soldier carries in his knapsack a stick of liquorice, meant, of course, to check a cough when on outpost or sentryduty. Their equipment is aluminium-made;
their waterproof sheet not only shelters
them from rain or dew by night, but also makes a bivouac. Again, in our entrenchments, which often are put up in turnip fields, the posts supporting are painted green, like the leaves. Every trick, every artifice, and rightly, too.
War is war is the lesson that Englishmen have got to learn.
Just one or two stories that I heard while we were at Longy-le-long, on the ridge above the town. One day, when the shells were pretty hot, I heard one Joak say to another, "Aye, mon, I'd rather see it on the pictures." At the same place a certain regiment loved sometimes to sit on the wall to guard his orchard and his pears. Tommy found that "little Willie" (a name we gave to a German gun), which often used to shriek over the town, made monsieur run to the cellar. So Tommy gets a biscuit box to imitate the shriek of "little Willie," and when he wanted pears to his contraption to work. Down drops monsieur off the wall to find the safety of his cellar, and in hope a Tommy to find delicacies for his company men.

INTENSELY BORED.

A Perthshire officer of a Scottish regiment, who has been installed here

from the front, in describing his experiences, says:
You would not believe it, but the principal feeling one has during the day in the trenches is that of being intensely bored. The attacks of the enemy are confined to night, when they seem toDON'T Forget after the show, Snapper,
and Light-Metals, ALEXANDRA CAFF, Open Till Midnight.

Prices: $1.25 and $2.25

think that their system of attack in these columns is likely to be more effective and less costly than during the day.
Sitting in the trenches, next to a great chair for chocolate, one would give anything for a good novel. When there is not time to dig proper trenches and mistake in them, they can be very horrible, but when they are well constructed and dry they are not uncomfortable. One gets quickly accustomed to the continuous shelling of the enemy, though the first feeling was "Shall I be hit?"

Our men are extraordinarily good.
One or two have crept right up to the German trenches and brought back valuable intelligence of their dispositions.
They are never in better spirits than when there is an attack on the way they hang on in quite marvellous. On the whole, except for certain crack German regiments, they are ready to take on extraordinary odds. Our men are ever so much better than the average German soldier. Their own splendid personality is invaluable, while they are better shots and are better led than their opponents.

ADMISSIONS OF A GERMAN
PASTOR.

"All Is Not Going Well With Us."

The following letter was found upon a German Protestant clergyman, who was killed by a shrapnel bullet in the Aisne.
It expresses doubtless what many of his comrades are thinking:

"My dear Ludwig, I admire you and I envy your fine optimism. It is not my fault: I see many frightful and horrible things, so many wounded here. I only see under its most forbidding aspect. All the same, if you are of opinion that all is going well you are not hard to please. We eat the foreigners at Charleroi, but not even you can deny that they beat us in their turn on the Marne. We lost no the sold an enormous quantity of men and war material. Certain of our corps were in full retreat."

"Forgive my frankness, but if the French had not been so weary they could have done with us what they liked. I saw soldiers dropping around me unable to go on. Do you know that we retreated without stopping to Peay (—), a tiny village where I was. From that moment we fell back constantly and in hot haste. I say
'fell back,' but I ought to employ another term with you. Fortunate indeed were we to find ourselves in such a position. These idiots of foreigners had allowed us to prepare in peace time. Even so it is, they have dislodged us from more than one."

NOT IN PARIS' TELL.

"We were to be in Paris in three weeks;
it was all arranged and settled; the S-B announced it publicly, and now four months have gone by and still we are not there. Shall we get to Paris now? I doubt it, for my part."

"I know not if anyone here has any idea of what is going on in Russia. Let us hope that matters are better there than here, for the French are not all rotten, as we were told and retold, and they often dare to attack with the bayonet."

"You assure me that we have gained an average of 20 kilometres (12½ miles). This is, at all events, not the case everywhere, for in Argonne we are hardly making any progress, in spite of our heavy artillery."
"Only the other day we lost three trenches, or 1,200 yards, and heaps of killed and wounded; so did the French, I suppose,
but all the same."

"And what about those attacks on mas-saces? The truth is being concealed from us, but aviators have thrown down Italian and Swiss journals to us, and, if they are to be trusted, it was a massacre
beyond all that the imagination can conceive. . . . and to what end? And what do you think of the brains of our Staff, not to have foreseen that the ground could be flooded? A lot of good we have got of it!"

TIME ON ALLIES' SIDE.

It is my opinion that the French have everything to gain by waiting and temporizing. Their strength can only increase, whereas ours . . . The French whom we have made prisoners are far from being discouraged. They are confident of the victory of the Allies, and nothing can make them change their opinion."

"I know by them that France within is a solid block, that living is not mere deceit, and who would have believed it—that organization is not at all in disorder, for they have in abundance all that they need."
"Ah, if it were not for the superiority of our heavy artillery, if we had not such a number of machine guns, and if our military preparations had not been so scrupulously complete!"

"The fact is that in spite of our

THE AIRCRAFT RAID ON NORFOLK.

WHILE the German aircraft raid just recorded is a matter to be deeply regretted on account of the fact that several unfortunate people have lost their lives and some property has been destroyed, it seems to us that from a military standpoint it is of no significance whatever. It is merely spectacular. Of what possible real advantage can such a murderous exploit be to the enemy? It may, possibly, encourage him to attempt a raid on a larger scale and at a point of more vital consequence. At such a point, however, the arrival of one or more aerial machines would be, by day or night, at once detected and coped with in a manner which would be much more serious to the invaders than the raid itself. Such a raid as that made on Tuesday night is practically nothing more nor less than a murderous attack on a few individuals. It is obviously the result of the Germans' hatred of the British for the havoc they have played with pan-Germanic hopes of conquest, for even the Germans cannot surely hope to derive any solid advantage from such an undertaking. It is a simple matter for a few air vessels to rush across the Channel in the dark and drop bombs over an undefended part of country in proximity to the coastline. Such a raid will be deplored by all right-thinking people because of the suffering it brings to the unfortunate victims. It will, however, cause no serious alarm and have only one important effect, namely, that it will cause the search for enemy aircraft to be more rigorously pursued and make the precautions against such barbarous attacks more complete. Obviously a long coastline such as that of the United Kingdom cannot be guarded over its entire extent. It is unnecessary that it should be, or, at least, up till now it has been thought to be unnecessary effectively to guard points other than those of vital importance. Doubtless, the present raid, together with the recent attack from the sea of the unfortified town on the Yorkshire coast, will cause the authorities to be more on the alert and, if necessary, to modify their plans. The aircraft raid appears to have been undertaken by three aeroplanes or Zeppelins, which made rapidly for separate points and dropped bombs indiscriminately. Sandringham Palace may have been the objective of one of the machines, and, if so, the aviators made rather a bad shot, for the nearest bomb was miles from the Palace. That no vital point was aimed at and that the raiders began their barbarous work at so late an hour at night seems to point conclusively to the raid being merely one of wanton destruction and unworthy of being considered as in any way part of a military plan of aggression. They came like a thief in the night, did as much harm as they could, and slunk away. Such is "civilized" Germany's methods of war. All may be fair in war, to the savage mind, but to a people who boast of their superior culture, and who aspire to be the dominating men of the Earth, there surely should be discrimination between the murdering of women and children and the attacking of combatants. The British aerial fleet may confidently be relied upon to deal with any serious raid upon the British Isles, and such wanton attacks as that at Norfolk will merely cause the precautions to be more complete and the defence and retaliation more thorough than it might otherwise have been.

MISSING MONEY.

Merchant's Wife Charged.

At Criminal Sessions to-day the Chief Justice and a jury heard further evidence in the case in which the second wife of a Chinese merchant, Fung Tin San, is charged on two counts of converting and stealing from his house at 48, Queen's Road West a sum of $1,000. The allegation of the Crown, for whom the Attorney-General is prosecuting, is that the money was given by complainant to his wife for safe custody and that when he returned from town one evening in December his wife explained the disappearance of the money by a story of an armed robbery by four men, which she repeated to the police but afterwards withdrew. Later prisoner accused her adopted brother, who was arrested with prisoner but was afterwards discharged, the Crown entering a nolle prosequi.

Complainant said he had never seen Wong Ngai, the prisoner's adopted brother, but he did not know until the day after the money disappeared that prisoner accused him of being the robber. One of the men was shouting "thief" when he arrived home, and she told him that armed men had been there and had stolen things. A marine hawk, whose stall is in front of the house of complainant's house, said on the night of the robbery he saw a man walk slowly from the house and immediately afterwards four blasts were blown on a police whistle by someone inside the house. Nobody left the house after the whistle had been blown.

An amah said Wong Ngai visited the house on the evening of December 9 and tied up the prisoner's mouth with some sugar cane. Prisoner repeated it. She did not see this, as it occurred in another building, but she heard her mistress say "Don't let my mouth open." She heard a noise of drawers being pulled out. She was much frightened and heard nothing else. The Attorney-General: You are not afraid now, are you?—I am. Witness continuing her story, said a girl left the building carrying a cash box partly covered under her coat, and went out of the house. Prisoner then ran on to the verandah and blew a whistle. His Lordship observed that the evidence of this woman corroborated the story of the husband, who said that his wife's mouth was bleeding and there were gaps in her mind, and if they believed that both this witness and the husband were telling the truth it was corroborative of prisoner's statement to the police and was such as would justify the jury in giving prisoner the benefit of any doubt which it created in their minds. His Lordship directed the jury on this point and the Attorney-General stated that they thought the case should be stopped. They accordingly returned a unanimous verdict of not guilty and prisoner was discharged. The Lordship said he thought the police were quite justified in having investigated the case.

DREDGING WITHOUT PERMISSION.

A Chinese was charged before Mr. Hazlewood at the Magistrate's Court this morning with being in unlawful possession of nine bags of coal, including admiral's briquettes.

Mr. Agnew defended.

The evidence showed that defendant was seen dredging in the harbour about 300 yards away from a coal wharf at Men Bek.

Mr. J. Marshall, of the Naval Coal Depot, in answer to Mr. Agnew, said the act of recovering briquettes to the admiral could be above his value.

Mr. Hazlewood: But no one has a right to dredge there?

Witness: No, unless they are permitted to do so. The Admiralty do not want these people dredging there.

Mr. Agnew said that according to the witness the admiral had been told that defendant had been dredging and where property was abandoned there could be an unlawful possession.

Ser. P. Grant in charge of the case said that defendant had no business to dredge without a permit from the Harbour Master.

Mr. Hazlewood: Then you charge him with that offence?

Regarding the coal seized, a witness was called who testified to employing defendant along with other men to dredge for coal.

The Magistrate said that having regard to the evidence adduced he would order the defendant to be discharged.

Mr. Robert Wallace, the chairman of the London Sessions, maintains that the earlier closing of public houses has caused an enormous decrease in crimes of violence and disorder. "Figures I have obtained," he said recently, "are so remarkable that they ought to be known. During the first nine months of this year 103 of these charges came here. The 11 o'clock closing order was introduced, and the result was that in October the number fell to five. In the month of the closing order was altered to 10 p.m., and in November the cases fell to two, whilst to-day, almost for the first time in the history of the country, we have not a single 'wounding' case to deal with. People may talk about theories, but these are facts and figures. I trust that the people who this war is teaching us, and the experience that is derived from it, will have their effect on future legislation."

A constable said that the defendants were gambling on a piece of vacant ground near Reclamation Street, screened from view. The three dollars were made up of ten cent pieces and there was also a pile of cents and cash.

Mr. Hazlewood fined each defendant $2 with the alternative of seven days' hard labour.

A Changsha correspondent, writing to the N.C. Daily News says:—So far, no British merchant has come to take over the export business of German firms. Although it is quite true that many of the young Germans who left Changsha for Tsingtau in August were not getting what a young Englishman would have called a "living wage," still a great deal of business was being done, and if British merchants were to come here they could capture much of it. That there is very little intercourse between the British and the few non-missionary German residents left in the port is chiefly the result of the actions of the latter in the earlier days of the war, when they were more successful in winning than they are, perchance, to-day.

The Colonial Secretary seconded, and the Bill was read a first time.

The objects and reasons clause read as follows:—

The main object of this Bill is to give the Governor-in-Council power in exceptional circumstances to authorise the stamping after execution of documents which cannot be stamped after execution under the existing law. It also provides that the consent of the Attorney-General shall no longer be necessary to prosecutions under the Stamp Ordinance. The requirement of this consent dates back in the Hongkong Ordinance to the year 1864, and no similar provision is known to exist in England in connection with the Stamp Act.

THE CANTEN PARTNER-SHIP DISPUTE.

A partnership issue in the Summary Court between Hain Karin Box, of 64, Queen's Road, Plaintiff, and Noor Din and Mohamed Din, tailors, of Besconfield Arcade, defendants, was mentioned this morning to Mr. Justice Gompertz by Mr. J. H. Gardiner, who stated that the matter was still in course of settlement, and very possibly an agreement would be come to without again bringing the case on before his Lordship. A settlement might be brought about more speedily if a day were fixed for the resumption of the trial of the action.

His Lordship fixed Friday January 29, the plaintiff's claim is for accounts and any money which may be found to be owing to him from the canteen and coffee bar business carried on by defendants and himself at Murray Barracks, Hongkong, and at Singapore, under the firm name of Noor Din, in which business he claims he was a partner.

Mr. Gardiner is representing the defendants. The plaintiff's claim is for accounts and any money which may be found to be owing to him from the canteen and coffee bar business carried on by defendants and himself at Murray Barracks, Hongkong, and at Singapore, under the firm name of Noor Din, in which business he claims he was a partner.

GERMAN AIRCRAFT RAID ON NORFOLK.BOMBS DROPPED ON YARMOUTH AND KING'S LYNN.

SANDRINGHAM PALACE AIMED AT.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

LONDON, Jan. 20, 12.30 a.m.

ZEPPELINS DROP BOMBS.

Zepplins dropped bombs at Great Yarmouth this evening. Some damage has been done and it is feared that there is also loss of life. The details are scanty.

(Reuter's Service to the China Mail.)

RAID A PROFOUND MYSTERY.

6.50 a.m.

A soldier has died of wounds received at Yarmouth. It was an intensely dark night that wrapped the raid in profound mystery. The opinion is divided as to whether the raiders used aeroplanes or Zepplins. The latest idea is that it was an aeroplane dash combined with Zepplin movements. The most significant fact is that such a comparatively small amount of damage was done. Only about a dozen people were injured.

AT YARMOUTH.

LONDON, Jan. 20, 12.40 p.m.

The damage done is of the slightest, amounting only to £50 at Yarmouth, while the total death toll is two women and two men. It appears that six aircraft reached the coast and then separated to the north and the south. The Yarmouth authorities say positively that these were visitors' aeroplanes. The situation at the raided towns is already normal.

HOW CROMER ESCAPED.

Cromer cleverly escaped owing to the officials' promptitude in extinguishing all the lights, in consequence of which those in the aircraft did not see the town and dropped no bombs.

DAMAGE TO LIFE AND PROPERTY.

LONDON, Jan. 19, 11.55 p.m.

A German aircraft has passed over Yarmouth and dropped several bombs, doing a good deal of damage to property and inflicting some loss of life.

The aircraft appeared at 8.30 in the evening. It was impossible to see the machine, but the buzzing of the motors was plainly audible. It appeared to be carrying a searchlight. The period of the bomb-dropping lasted ten minutes. One man had his head blown off.

RAID MADE IN THE DARK.

LATER.

It was too dark to identify the aircraft at Yarmouth, but from the noise of the engine it was believed to be an aeroplane. It remained ten minutes and dropped five bombs.

Three people were killed and several houses were shattered. Many windows were broken. The aircraft subsequently dropped two bombs at Sandringham, but they did no damage.

It is noteworthy that an Amsterdam telegram reports that three German airships were sighted at the island of Ameland early in the afternoon, flying westward.

BOY KILLED AND THREE PERSONS INJURED.

LONDON, Jan. 20, 2.5 a.m.

An aircraft, believed to be a Zepplin, at 10.45 last evening dropped four bombs at King's Lynn. Bombs were also dropped near Sandringham.

LATER.

Two houses were demolished at King's Lynn. A boy was killed and three persons were injured. The damage sustained at Sandringham is not known. The special constables in London have been called out in view of an airship raid.

FURTHER DETAILS.

LATER.

An Amsterdam telegram states that at two o'clock in the morning three German airships passed Hellum, Vlieland and Terschelling, returning from the west.

Their Majesties the King and Queen left Sandringham yesterday and arrived in London several hours before the appearance of the hostile aircraft.

A Zepplin passed Sandringham, half a mile from Sandringham House, but the nearest place to the Palace that a bomb was thrown was Houghton, near Hunstanton.

In the street at King's Lynn where the houses were demolished all the front doors were burst in and the furniture in the houses scattered by the explosion.

A report that a Zepplin was brought down at Hunstanton is unconfirmed.

THE STRUGGLE IN FRANCE AND BELGIUM.

A DISPATCH FROM THE EYE-WITNESS.

LONDON, Jan. 19.

The Eye-witness at Headquarters in a dispatch on the operations on the British front in France states that the report of a considerable British success at Ypres is untrue, but our artillery completely rained a bridge of great importance at Froidshoven, below Arras.

The floods have now slightly subsided. The physical well-being of the German troops is inferior to that of the British. They are not so warmly clad and their medical attendance is undoubtedly inferior.

ARTILLERY ACTIONS IN SNOWSTORMS.

LONDON, Jan. 19, 5.30 p.m.

To-day's Paris communique says:—Snowstorms continue in Belgium, but there has been intermittent cannonading. Snow has also fallen in Arras, where our heavy artillery on several occasions silenced the enemy's batteries.

There has been a somewhat lively action at La Boisselle, but the enemy has not renewed his attacks. The bombardment of St. Paul and Soissons has not been followed by an infantry attack.

Artillery duels continue at Rheims. We captured another German work at Boile-Preire where we now occupy 500 metres of German trenches.

A snowstorm prevails in the Vosges, and there is artillery activity especially at Bannes and Thann.

LONDON, Jan. 20, 3.05 a.m.

The Paris evening communique contains no incident of importance.

THE ALLIES' PROGRESSING.

LONDON, Jan. 21, 6 p.m.

A Paris communique states:—There has been a lively artillery duel at Nieuport, the enemy vainly trying to destroy our bridge at the mouth of the Yser. We succeeded in demolishing part of his subsidiary defences and, near St. Georges, a farm which he had strongly fortified. There have also been artillery actions at Ypres and Lens and a violent bombardment at Bligny. Our artillery at Chalons, Perthes and Masages was most effective against the enemy's works.

DESPERATE ENCOUNTER AT BOIS DE GRURIE.

A communique states: The enemy violently attacked Bois de Grurie and we retired from one trench under the shock. However, we recaptured by a counter-attack the greater part of the trench and afterwards retook the whole position.

The Germans mined the north east salient of our trenches at Saint-Eubert, but we dashed into the cavity made by the explosion to prevent the enemy establishing themselves there.

We established ourselves another hundred metres ahead of the trenches captured from the Germans north-west of Font a Mousson. The enemy made unsuccessful counter-attacks.

There has been at Thann an artillery engagement which resulted in our favour.

AT THE RUSSIAN FRONT.

RUSSIANS STILL PURSUING THE TURKS.

LONDON, Jan. 19.

A Petrograd communique states that the Russians are successfully pursuing the retreating Turks, clearing the enemy out of the Transcarpathian country, capturing his positions on the Sultan Selim mountain, and inflicting heavy losses.

FRENCH SUBMARINE SUNK.

LONDON, Jan. 19.

An official announcement at Paris states that the submarine Saphir, which was on patrol duty near the Dardanelles on the 15th inst., has not rejoined the squadron.

According to foreign Press accounts she has been sunk. Turkish vessels rescued part of the crew.

DUTCH NAVAL LAUNCH BLOWN UP.

LONDON, Jan. 20.

A telegram from Amsterdam says that a Dutch Naval launch has been blown up by a mine in the Scheldt, and that five men were drowned.

CARDINAL MERCIER'S PROTEST.

LONDON, Jan. 19.

An Amsterdam telegram states that Cardinal Mercier has sent a letter to the priests of his diocese in which he protests against the Germans forcing entrance into vicarages, seizing his pastoral letter, threatening to punish priests if they read it, violating a Cardinal's dignity by detaining him, and violating the rights of the priests and himself. He congratulates the priests on doing their duty.

BOARD OF TRADE PROHIBITIONS.

LONDON, Jan. 20, 6.50 p.m.

The Board of Trade has prohibited the export outside of the Empire of oil, except linseed oil and has also prohibited oil-bearing nuts, seeds, lard and refined tallow.

WAR NEWS.

The Daily Mail diplomatic correspondent, in depicting the interview of King Albert of Belgium with the Kaiser, states that the Kaiser finally said:—"Some day you will remember that you are a Coburg." King Albert replied:—"Certainly, and I am also an Orleanist; but, about it, I am a Belgian."

An article in Die Zukunft says:—Duty prohibits us from concealing the fact that we are appallingly far from our goal, and that the overwhelming majority of neutrals is against us. Another great power and two warrior nations in Eastern Europe may join our forces, and Germany must be prepared for the hardest fate ever experienced.

EYEWITNESS' OPINION.

LONDON, Jan. 8.

Eyewitness writes that the New Year opened with a more favourable situation for the Allies than at any time since commencement of the campaign. As far as the British are concerned, the original small expeditionary force of four divisions has now swelled to a great army which is steadily increasing in numbers and has become trained to war and can look back on a record of hard fighting such as British troops have seldom sustained in the past.

Eyewitness points out that even when active operations are not in progress there is continual effort to gain a mastery by sniping and bombardment, by trench mortars and heavy guns, by the use of gas, and by the use of the enemy's tanks and some units have been temporarily withdrawn owing to typhoid.

OUTRAGE ON A MISSIONARY.

Dose of Medicine Meled Out to Germans.

The steamship Morinda, which arrived at Sydney from Rabaul on December 13, brought a number of German prisoners, including those who were responsible for the flogging of the Rev. Mr. Cox, a British missionary, at New Ireland recently. According to the news brought by the Morinda, 25 members of the Australian expeditionary force were despatched to New Ireland to arrest German prisoners for the outrage. The men were reported to have escaped to the mountains armed with rifles. Their arrest was effected, however, and they were brought to Rabaul on November 30. The Germans in question were publicly flogged at Rabaul in the presence of the Australian troops. The prisoner was drawn up in the form of a hollow square, in the centre of which was placed a large travelling trunk, across which the prisoners were stretched while the punishment was meted out. German residents were instructed to stand, and although many requested to be allowed to stay away, about fifty Germans were present. The crew of the Morinda were also present and witnessed the incident. After the square had been formed and the officers had taken up their positions near the trunk in the centre, six German prisoners were marched in. Colonel Holmes presided over the flogging, and it is said to have been a most impressive sight. They were to be flogged with the British flag and while they did so they would receive proper treatment. The prisoners were then publicly flogged with the same weapon with which they had flogged the Rev. Mr. Cox in October last. A doctor and two others are said to have received 20 strokes each, two others received 25 strokes each, and another 10 strokes.

A PECULIAR SITUATION.

A somewhat peculiar situation arose in Mr. Hazell's Court this morning, on a solicitor making an application to re-arrest a case, in which the defendant had pleaded guilty and had been fined $300. The charge was one of selling intoxicating liquor without a license, and the defendant was Li Chi, of 221 Queen's Road West. Half-an-hour later, Mr. Stanton mentioned that he had been instructed to defend the case. He thought there was some explanation to the charge. The owners had been at his office since 8.30 a.m. this morning and unfortunately had only just been discovered. He said he knew very little about the case beyond the fact that the whole of the wine was bought from Messrs. Hughes and Hough.

Mr. Hazell: They were selling it without a license.

Mr. Stanton observed that the owners bought the shop, which was licensed, as well as all the stock. He was not in a position to discuss the matter.

Eventually it was agreed that defendant should pay the fine and that an application for a re-hearing be made within a week.

Inspector P. O'Sullivan asked Mr. Hazell if he would forfeit the wine seized.

The Magistrate intimated that he would make the order but instructed the police to hold it for a week.

The value of the wine, which comprises 400 or 500 bottles, is about $60.

A STRANGE STORY.

A sensational story of the alleged drug-giving of a woman has come to the notice of the police, but on investigation it was found to be false.

A woman named Leung Siu Tsing, of 199 Hollywood Road, and the originator of the alleged story, said that on the 16th inst. she went with another woman named Sam Ku to a house in Caine Road, with the object of interviewing a man who had intimated through an agency that he would hire her as his concubine. They reached the house and after waiting an hour she was given a cup of tea. She declared she remembered no more for three days when she awoke in her own house. There it was she missed a pair of gold bangles valued at $80.

The woman undertook to make a complaint at the central station, and on receipt of the information the police commenced making inquiries. They ascertained that the two women concerned, and others had been gambling heavily and Leung had contracted a debt of $183. She took the police to a house in Caine Road, where she alleged she had been drugged, but she was unable to identify any of the household, all of whom denied ever having seen the woman.

LOVE AND LANGUAGE.

How to Remain Happy.

An extraordinary wedding is reported. A young Canadian, Private Victor Albert Baker, aged twenty-three, who left his employment as an engine-driver in the service of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company to fight for the Empire, returned to Salisbury Plain recently after one of the most hotly-made matches on record.

Seven weeks before another Canadian soldier introduced him to his cousin, a Belgian refugee named Bertha Vanden Bosch, who was being cared for in a hospital attached to the Linden-grove Congregational Church, Nunhead.

Bertha is twenty years of age, and since from Antwerp, where she was engaged as a cashier in a hotel. It was a case of love at first sight, says the correspondent who tells the story, and the language difficulty was a serious one; but it was overcome, and as the second meeting after their introduction, Baker proposed marriage, and an engagement ring was placed upon the girl's finger. He saw her twice more after that, and they were married at the Linden-grove Church.

The bride's mother and father are stranded on the Continent, but heavy approval came from the girl's uncle and aunt, who are also refugees from Belgium.

The bridegroom wore khaki, as also did his father, who is training with him. Their leave was short, and the honeymoon was limited to one day. It was spent at Peckham, part of it in a local cinema.

The Mayors of Camberwell attended the wedding breakfast, at which one of the guests offered the bride and bridegroom a little amusing advice:—

"If you don't learn each other's language, you will be the happiest man and wife in the world."

The bride is to go to the home of her husband's parents in Canada to await his return from the war.

SANITARY BOARD MEMORANDUM.

TO THE ELECTORS OF THE SANITARY BOARD.

GENTLEMEN,
In asking for a renewal of the support you have hitherto given me with far back as January, 1909, I beg to bring before you the following more important points:-

Firstly, that as a Medical Practitioner I am brought into direct touch with the needs of the Colony, with the water supply, its deficiencies, purity or otherwise, and with the effects of the Conservancy system in its bearing upon epidemic diseases, diphtheria and other infectious diseases, all of which evidence I would remind you is brought to my notice first hand. The constant guarding against evil effects and the improvement of existing conditions are matters of supreme importance in a city growing as Hongkong is to-day, and even more so in the light of what development and growth are likely to produce in the future. A future, which by the linking up of railways and trade routes, the extension of docks and wharves and the improved educational facilities which the University has given, will transform the present comparatively small but important Colony into the premier city of the vastest and most populous country in the East.

Secondly, and again as a Medical man, that I have no interest in Party Politics, and have thereby the more time to devote to such of your interests as concern a Hygienic point of view, the welfare of the citizens as a whole. Having nothing to fear from a straight forward expression of opinion based on Medical grounds, I am enabled to serve you in the future in the same way that I have endeavoured to do in the past, and with the added confidence which six years service in the general routine of the Board and the serving on special committees has given me.

Thirdly, that as I pointed out in my first Election address, I hold qualifications in Public Health of the University of Edinburgh, and later studied in London under Professor Simpson, who was so closely associated with the early schemes of Sanitation in this particular Colony. This experience has stood me in good stead in my endeavours to advance and support measures which will eventually help to transform this place into an up to date and model City, an example to our rapidly awakening Neighbour, and a Health Resort for those of us who are destined to spend our working days in the East.

Yours Etc.,
GERARD R. L. FITZWILLIAMS.

It never fails; acts quickly and is absolutely harmless. For sale by all Chemists and Druggists.

NEARLY DRIVEN MAD WITH ECZEMA

Broke Out Over Eyebrows. Covered Whole of Face. Rarely Got Any Sleep During Night. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Healed Face.

67, Nunnery Lane, York, Eng.—"Eczema broke out just over my eyebrows and gradually covered the whole of my face in the form of small scales, which were constantly maturing, then gradually dried and peeled off. I was under treatment for seven weeks during which time I was confined to the house and rarely got any sleep during the night on account of the irritation. For several days before I got the Cuticura Soap and Ointment I put a little of the Ointment on my face. This treatment gradually allayed the irritation so I continued this for three weeks and after that time my face was cured." (Signed) G. LARSEN, Jan. 12/14.
Cuticura Soap and Ointment have proved most valuable for the treatment of pimples, blackheads, redness and roughness of the face and hands, dandruff, itching, irritated scalp with dry, thin and falling hair, as well as for all purposes of the toilet, bath and nursery from infancy to age.

Samples Free by Post
Although Cuticura Soap and Cuticura Ointment are sold by druggists and dealers throughout the world, a liberal sample of each with 32-p. Skin Book will be sent upon request. Address post-card: F. Newbery & Sons, 27, Charterhouse Sq., London.
